Oliver's is pleased to announce Bogle Family Vineyards as the Winery of the Month for February

Bogle has a solid following in our stores, but for those who may not know of these excellent (and affordable) wines, allow us to provide an introduction!

Although the Bogle family has been farming since the mid-1800's, it was not until 1968 that the father and son team of Warren and Chris Bogle planted their first 20 acres of wine grapes in Clarksburg, California. In this small farming community nestled along the Sacramento River, the Bogle family's years of hard work have developed into an impressive grape growing operation, as well as a nationally acclaimed winery.

Today Bogle Vineyards farms over 1,200 acres of wine grapes in the Delta region. The winery was established ten years after the first grapes were planted, and their success as vintners has grown tremendously along with the vineyards.

As farmers first, the Bogle family understands the importance of being sustainable. They also know that wine is only as good as the grapes that go into it, so they work with many long-term grower partners in premier growing regions across California and pay them bonuses for delivering fruit that is certified under the California Rules for Sustainable Winegrowing.

The success of Bogle over the years is firmly rooted in the day-to-day involvement of the Bogle family in the hands-on effort to produce and promote quality wines. With their deep commitment to quality, the Bogle family wouldn't have it any other way.
